

CB Dejvice — Campaign Design System

Brand Board

CB Dejvice

Colour

Four colours carry the whole campaign. Ink and paper-white do the work; gold is the accent that marks the appeal.

#264653 Ink

Headings, dark panels, body text.

#E9C46A Gold

Accents, CTAs, the logo mark.

#FFD56E Light gold

Secondary blocks and quiet fills.

#FFFFFF White

Paper and grounds. Give it room.

Never large gold text on white.

Gold is for marks, rules and small accents. Set headlines in ink, or reverse them out of an ink panel.

Typography

Raleway sets everything. Headings in SemiBold, body in Regular. Load the latin-ext subset so Czech diacritics render correctly.

Building for the Next Generation

400 Regular — body copy, captions, long-form

500 Medium — labels and small emphasis

600 SemiBold — headings and subheads

700 Bold — display lines, used sparingly

BODY SAMPLE

The new sanctuary sits largely below ground, tucked beneath the house the church already owns on Evropská. That is what makes it costly to build — and what lets a congregation of this size gather in the middle of Prague 6 without leaving the neighbourhood it has served for decades. Every gift goes to the building fund.

Modlitebna pro Prahu 6 — ěščřžů

Czech diacritics must render. Use the latin-ext subset of Raleway.

Logo & Imagery

The lockup is a dark-background asset — its wordmark is white. The mark on its own is gold and may sit on paper.

Full lockup on dark only

Never re-set the wordmark — its font is commercial.

Mark may sit on white

Gold mark alone, no wordmark.

IMAGERY

Proposed design over the existing building

The sanctuary interior — hero render

Section: the hall sits below ground

Imagery: architectural renders

White stone, pale oak, warm light. No stock photography and no people composited in. For print, ask the architect for originals — the supplied renders cap at 1920 px.

Principles

How the campaign should feel in the hand. These are constraints, not decoration.

Generous whitespace

Let the page breathe. Crowding reads as pressure.

Paper-white grounds

White is the default. Ink panels are the exception, used to frame.

Gold sparingly, as accent

A rule, a mark, a small emphasis. Never a whole headline.

Soft arch shapes

Echo the pointed-arch glazing of the new sanctuary. Use them quietly.

Humble tone

No urgency countdowns, no garish marketing. State the need plainly and let people decide.
